“ God's Garden

God looked around his garden
And found an empty place.
He then looked down upon the earth,
And saw your tired face.

He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He always takes the best.

He knew that you were suffering,
He knew that you were in pain.
He knew that you would never
Get well on earth again.

He saw the road was getting rough
And the hills were hard to climb.
So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."

“ Jose came into my classroom at the beginning of the school year with fond memories of sibling rivalry. He talked about his sister a lot. We had many laughs. But one question always stood out that he would say around 2:30 p.m. everyday, "Is it time to go home yet?" It got so that we would both say it in unison as time past, until he got use to the routines and procedures here at Lew Wallace Elementary. Now, Jose has transitioned to a better place, his heavenly home. You made it home, Jose, and I know that I will see you again someday.

“ I want to send my condolences to the family. I am truly sorry for your loss. I knew Jose from the first time he started school in Pre-K. He didn't want to come to school and he would be crying everyday when he came in. I monitored the hallway in the morning and I would console him and help him feel better. Once he got older he would go out of his way to always wave or say "Hi" to me almost everyday. I WILL NEVER FORGET HIM. Love & Prayers to you all.

“ My name is Jason Tokoly. I teach third grade at Wallace. Jose was not in my class, but I talked to him almost daily when he was in third grade. We always talked about video games and Pokemon. We both shared interest in both. He made me feel old when I didn't know something and I was fine with that. He was a great kid who just liked to have fun. I'm sure he is catching some Pokemon right now.
