“Discipline”...

I was about 7 or 8 years old, he came home from a 2-year working contract abroad and at my age i was so eager to learn from him. I knew he holds a high bar of martial arts belt. I asked him to teach me but he declined. His reason was "discipline". Since he works abroad and he could not attend to me full time and he doesn't want me to go astray doing things irreversible, he taught me discipline.

Proverbs 22:6 KJV

Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

I thank my Tatay Joe for putting up with me. I have been a stubborn son, prodigal, but i am so grateful for having such a loving and caring father. He led me to knowing Jesus Christ as my Savior. He relentlessly encouraged me through the most difficult, darkest times of my life. He's always there to lift and stir up my spirit.

Now, I have my whole family (my loving wife-Lizette, my lovely daughter-Amirha and my Lolo's-same-birthday son-Isahn) serving the Lord Jesus Christ. We owe everything to our most loving "Lolo Joe"...

"This is not the end but only the beginning of eternity. We will see you when we get There!"

We love you so much!!!
